

Alumni

- Hi, I'm Dean Kellye Testy, the new dean of the law school.
- I'm thrilled to have joined the University of Washington and to lead one of the nation's very best law schools.
- Our legacy of excellence is evident in every aspect of our program, for both our JD students and our many graduate students in our vibrant centers in Global Health, Tax, Intellectual Property and Technology Law, Asian Law, Law & Entrepreneurship, and exciting new initiatives in Climate Justice.
- Today, I want you to know that I understand that we have you – our alumni and friends – to thank for our success.
- We are proud of you and grateful for your support -- You have been the staunchest supporters of the law school – true partners in our educational mission.
- You send us the best and brightest from your communities and you reach back to hire our students when they graduate.
- You are mentors, coaches, teachers, and advisors.
- You provide financial resources through your generous contributions.
- Together, you form a network of support and inspiration for our students and faculty.
- As we continue to build on our distinguished tradition to rise to the next level of accomplishment and reputation, I want you to know that I am looking forward to working together in the coming months and years.
- Please join me as we aim high and deepen our unwavering commitment to excellence at UW Law.
