WINTER QUARTER ROOM CHANGES

A581 Washington Con Law Seminar (Spitzer): Will meet in room 133 on Mondays, Mar. 1st & Mar. 8th.

E506 Asian Contract Law (Linnan): Will meet in room 119 on Mondays, Mar. 1st & Mar. 8th.

Winter Quarter Examinations

Exam numbers

First year students will get a new exam number to be used with their Winter Quarter exams. Please come to Academic Services beginning on March 1st to get your new number. You must have it before the end of the quarter on March 12.

Other students will use the same number that they received for their Autumn Quarter exams. All students are expected to have their exam number with them for each exam. Students who do not have their exam number will have to use exam time to get it.

Winter Quarter exams are scheduled for March 15 – 20. Students are responsible for reviewing the exam instructions (at www.law.washington.edu/students) prior to their examinations.

USE OF COMPUTERS

Students may use computers in the taking of Winter Quarter exams only in those courses where clearance is specifically granted.

Students should always bring bluebooks to use in case they have any problems with planned use of a computer. No additional time will be permitted in the exam period due to computer related problems. Each student is bound by the honor code in all aspects of the examination process.

THE LOCKERS ARE COMING!

During the installation of the lockers (which is expected to take up to two weeks), all persons need to stay away from the lockers. Until the lockers are secured to the walls, they should be considered as unstable. Don't even touch them!

Lockers cannot be used until assigned. Academic Services will announce when locker assignments are ready for distribution. All lockers will need to be installed and the job accepted by the UW before any lockers can be used.

Remember, students will need to provide their own locks.

Spring Quarter Registration

Registration for Spring quarter has begun. Instructions and line and block schedules are posted on the website, www.law.washington.edu/Students. All JD students and students in some LLM programs can find their add codes and waitlist ranks on their Adjusted Schedule online.

First add code deadline is March 7th

You must use your add codes by MARCH 7 or risk losing your spot in the class! Any add codes not used by this date may be revoked in order to let students in off wait lists for spring quarter classes. Please check your adjusted schedule at www.law.washington.edu/students to see if you have add codes that you have not used.

We will send out a lawdawgs announcement when wait lists have been updated and you can check your adjusted schedule for any new add codes.

Taking non-law classes

J.D. students may request that a limited number of credits from non-law courses be counted toward the J.D. degree requirements. These requests should be made prior to taking the course. Please check the Law School general bulletin or with Academic Services for specific information regarding this option.
LESANI AWARD
The School of Law is pleased to announce the establishment of the Lesani Award, an annual award of $500 to a JD law student (in good standing) who plans to be actively involved as a lawyer in one of the following areas:
1. Civil Rights & Civil Liberties
2. Human Rights
3. Immigration

Preference will first be given to a student who best demonstrates that as an attorney, he or she will be actively involved in defending civil rights and civil liberties. If there is no qualified student, the award will be given to a student planning to be actively involved in human rights law. If it is determined that there is also no student who is planning to be active in human rights law, the award will be given to a student demonstrating an intent to be actively involved in rights of immigrants.

The Lesani Award was established by Anthony B. Ravani to honor his deceased father-in-law who always valued Civil Rights/Liberties. Mr. Ravani understands that lawyers are key in upholding civil rights, civil liberties, human rights, and rights of immigrants. By creating this award, he hopes to give encouragement to law students who will be active in these areas of law as practicing attorneys.

This award is not contingent upon financial need. A faculty committee will select the recipient based upon an application consisting of a cover letter and resume. Please submit applications to Arlo Hammontree in the Financial Aid Office no later than noon on March 12, 2004.

John H. and George V. Powell Endowed Award for Human Rights
I am very pleased to announce the third annual John H. and George V. Powell Award for Human Rights. This award provides assistance to J.D. students doing summer internships or externships in the area of Human Rights and Justice. The scholarship fund will award $1,500 in financial assistance. Applicants will submit a one-page paper describing their Human Rights summer opportunity. Recipients will be selected by the Dean upon the recommendation of faculty members in accordance with the donor’s terms. Papers should be submitted to the Financial Aid Office by April 9th.

Mary Ellen Krug Scholarship for 3L’s
Applications are now being accepted for the Mary Ellen Krug Scholarship Awards. An award will be made to the student or students who have demonstrated both an interest and proficiency in the fields of labor and employment law and related subjects. The amount of the awards may vary. Applications should include (1) a cover letter explaining the applicant's qualifications, (2) a resume, and (3) two letters of recommendation (preferably faculty members). Applications should be submitted to the Financial Aid Office. The deadline for submission is March 12, 2004.

ROBERT C. FINLEY MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP
The Robert C. Finley Scholarship Fund was created in recognition of Justice Robert Finley’s extraordinary record of service to the legal profession, the system of justice, and the people of the State of Washington. Justice Finley served on the Supreme Court of Washington for 25 years, from 1951 to 1976. During his years on the bench he was known for his compassionate and caring approach and his genuine concern for fairness and justice.

This scholarship is specifically restricted to applicants who will be second-year students during the 2004-2005 academic year. The 2003-2004 award was $5,950.

Evaluation of your application will be based on your demonstrated financial need and your response to the following essay question:
Describe your personal interest and involvement in civic or community activities particularly as they may relate to current and emerging societal issues and concerns such as (but not limited to) the environment, the provision of legal services to the poor and under-represented segments of the population, and public understanding of the law.

Although not required, you may also submit a letter of recommendation and a resume as part of your application. Application deadline is March 5, 2004.

JUDGE WALTER B. BEALS, CLASS OF 1901
---Jennifer Locke, Reference Intern

Have you wondered about the old chair in one of the back corners along the western wall of Floor L1 in the Library? It was the chair used by law school alumnus, Judge Walter Beals, during one phase of the war crimes trials held in Nuremberg between 1946 and 1950 following World War II.

Judge Beals was born in St. Paul, Minnesota and moved to the Washington Territory with his family in 1876. He graduated from the University of Washington School of Law in 1901 and, upon graduation, maintained a private law practice in Seattle. In 1926, he was elected to the Supreme Court of Washington, where he served until 1952. In 1952, Judge Beals won the UW Alumnus Summa Laude Dignatus Award, an honor designated for outstanding alumnae and alumni, distinguished for service and achievement.

In October 1946, Judge Beals took a leave from his position as Chief Justice of the Washington Supreme Court to serve as a judge in the Nuremberg Military Tribunals. When he was appointed to the position, Judge Beals was seventy years old and had had no previous war crimes trial or international law experience.

He served as the Presiding Judge over the American military tribunal criminal proceedings against twenty-three leading German physicians and administrators. The defendants were accused of organizing and participating in war crimes and crimes against humanity in the form of harmful or fatal medical experiments and other medical procedures inflicted on both civilians and prisoners of war (the “Doctors’ Trial”). The Doctors’ Trial lasted for nine months and, on August 20, 1947, sixteen of the defendants were found guilty.

The Gallagher Law Library is fortunate to possess a set of the original mimeographed copies of the entire Nuremberg War Crimes Trial proceedings, which were distributed to a limited number of locations by the Office of the U.S. Chief of Counsel for War Crimes, Document Division (Nuremberg Trials "Subsequent Proceedings" Documents, KZ1178 .G47 1946-49 at Special Collections). This collection includes over 1200 bound volumes and is an invaluable resource for lawyers, scholars, and researchers interested in ethics, genocide, war crimes, and crimes against humanity. The materials are rare and considered to be too fragile to be handled, so they are kept in our Special Collections area. You can, however, view some of the materials online, thanks to the Harvard Law School Library’s Nuremberg Trials Project. The Harvard Law School Library has begun to digitize its Nuremberg documents; their material is available on the Internet at http://nuremberg.law.harvard.edu, along with analytical information about each document and general information about the trials. The Project’s Resources page is particularly helpful, as it contains many references to primary and secondary resources on the Nuremberg Trials.

Gallagher Law Library also has an impressive collection of primary and secondary resources about the Nuremberg War Crimes Trials. One noteworthy resource is Judge Beals’ desk book of the Doctors’ Trial, The First German War Crimes Trial (located at D804 G425 B72 1985 in the Classified Stacks). It contains a compilation of those documents Judge Beals referenced during the trial. In addition to rules of procedure and the agreements establishing the tribunals, the book includes indictments for each defendant and trial charts and photographs.

Gallagher Law Library is privileged to have these rare legal-historical documents and artifacts of what some consider the most important trial in history. We hope that having Judge Beals's chair here among the stacks and student study areas may remind passersby of the importance of our profession to the cause of human rights and justice.

POINT OF INFORMATION: THE DOCTORS’ TRIAL

In 1997, the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, located in Washington, D.C., commemorated the 50th anniversary of the Doctors' Trial with an online exhibition, http://www.ushmm.org/research/doctors/index.html, which is based upon excerpts from the official trial record. Included are Brigadier General Telford Taylor's opening statement, some of the witnesses' testimony, the indictment, the sentences that were handed down, and a brief essay on the background and importance of the Nuremberg Code.

Also included in this online exhibition are photographs of the courtroom used during the Doctors' Trial, together with the four American judges who heard the cases, including Presiding Judge Walter B. Beals. To catch a glimpse of Judge Beals, follow the opening page links to Opening Statement (and then to The Charges against these defendants... ) and Sentences.

The privilege of opening the first trial in history for crimes against the peace of the world imposes a grave responsibility. The wrongs which we seek to condemn and punish have been so calculated, so malignant, and so devastating that civilization cannot tolerate their being ignored, because it cannot survive their being repeated. That four great nations, flushed with victory and stung with injury, stay the hand of vengeance and voluntarily submit their captive enemies to the judgment of the law is one of the most significant tributes that power has ever paid to reason....

Great Opportunities

I want to use this column to promote a great opportunity for UW Law students. In a combined effort by King County Superior Court judges, our Career Services office and UW Law Professor Craig Allen, a number of externships have been opened with Superior Court judges for UW Law students. These externships are part-time opportunities that involve only about five to ten hours of work a week. 2Ls and 3Ls can add these experiences to their third quarter course load to enhance their educations at the Law School and gain some real-world experience. Judges Catherine Shaffer, Steven Gonzalez and many others have expressed a great deal of interest in having UW Law School students extern in their chambers during this academic year and the opportunity is one with which I have personal experience.

During my 2L year I worked ten to fifteen hours a week for King County Superior Court Judge Mary Yu. My responsibilities focused on the constitutionality of Initiative 776, a case that was before Judge Yu. My time with Judge Yu was one of the greatest experiences I have had in this Law School. I was able to continue to take a full course load while learning a great deal about the trial court system. I researched Washington Constitutional law extensively, observed oral arguments and wrote a number of memos about the case. Additionally, Judge Yu taught me a great deal about the legal system and how to be successful as a lawyer. I would recommend externing for King County Judge to any student not only because it is a great experience, but because the time commitment is perfectly designed to fit in the busy schedule of law students.

If you are interested in externing for a King County Judge please e-mail Arleen Nand in the Career Services office at pservice@u.washington.edu.

Quarter/Semesters

Thanks to everyone who attended our Winter Forum to discuss a wide variety of issues, including the debate over the semester and quarter systems. The vote on that subject will close today at 5:00 p.m. so if you have not voted, please take a moment to do so and help the SBA better represent your views. I will write my next column together with Rali Badissy, our SBA 1L Representative, and we will share the results of the survey and discuss where we see this debate headed over the coming months.

Have a good week.

TGIW: Wednesday, March 3rd
The Moot Court Honor Board is pleased to host a combined TGIW and awards ceremony on Wednesday, March 3rd, from 3-6 in the student commons area. Please join us for free food and drinks. In addition to traditional TGIT festivities, we will be honoring teams from the Contract Drafting, TYLA, ATLA, Jessup, and PACE competitions. This is a great opportunity to socialize, learn more about Moot Court Honor Board, and celebrate the outstanding performances of your fellow students in recent Moot Court competitions. In addition, for all those who served as witnesses in last weekend's TYLA competition, this is a big THANK YOU for helping us make that an incredible competition.

SBA Movie Night hosted by Prof. Aronson
Do you like movies? Are you interested in the law? Then the SBA’s Movie Night event is for you! Join us on Thursday, March 4th for a viewing of “Twelve Angry Men,” and a follow-up discussion lead by Professor Aronson. It’s in room 117 and we’ll start at 6:30.

This is a perfect way to de-stress and to gain new insights into the legal profession (all without opening a textbook!)

Essential movie refreshments will be provided. We hope to see you there!

Auction proceeds will fund grants for University of Washington School of Law students to pursue work in the public interest. In addition, a portion of the auction proceeds will be used to establish a University of Washington School of Law Loan Repayment Assistance Program.

UW Moot Court Teams Perform at National/Regional Competitions.
Last weekend, the University of Washington and the Moot Court Honor Board sent out 5 teams to compete in 4 separate regional or national moot court competitions. All teams put in a lot of hard work, advanced out of the preliminary rounds and did an outstanding job representing the University of Washington.

Texas Young Lawyers Association (TYLA) Mock Trial Competition – Seattle, WA
- Maurice Classen & Tom Baisch: Regional Champions*
- Brad Crockett & Christina Miyamasu: Semifinalists
*As regional champions, the team will compete in the national competition in Austin, TX.

American Trial Lawyers Association (ATLA) Mock Trial Competition – Tempe, AZ
- Mike Estok, Matt Daley, Angelica McGaha, & Lynette Meachum: Regional Champions*
*As regional champions, the team will compete in the national competition in West Palm Beach, FL.

Philip C. Jessup International Law Moot Court Competition – Salem, OR
- Zachary McIsaac, Jesse Miller, Natasha Black, Peter Mullenix, & Kelly Fennerty: Regional Semifinalist
Other awards:
- Second Best Brief
- Fifth Best Speaker (Jesse Miller)

Pace National Environmental Law Moot Court Competition – White Plains, NY
- Sam Rodabough, Lindsay Halm, & Sasha Sajovic: National Quarterfinalist
Other awards:
- Outstanding Individual Speaker in Round (Lindsay Halm (x2) & Sasha Sajovic)

Please take the time to congratulate students who participated in these competitions. They have all worked hard to represent the University of Washington School of Law well and their exceptional performances only raise the reputation of our program.

–Moot Court Honor Board

For information on participation in regional or national competitions, please email smasada@u.washington.edu.

We are pleased to announce the arrival of Ciarán Ramasastry Walsh on Tuesday, February 24, 2004 at 9:43 p.m. He is 19 inches long and weighed in at 6 pounds 4 ounces. Ciarán and his parents Anita Ramasastry and Walter Walsh are all doing fine.
JUDSON FALKNOR APPELLATE ADVOCACY COMPETITION COMING SOON!

The Judson Falknor Appellate Advocacy Competition is coming up soon. The competition is open to second and third year law students and all competitors will earn two academic credits for their efforts. Along with earning credit, the competition is a great chance for students to practice their appellate skills. Exceptional performers will be invited on to the Moot Court Honor Board and may represent the UW at regional and national competitions. The registration period begins on March 3 and runs through March 12. A sign up sheet will be posted outside the Moot Court Office. The entrance fee is yet to be determined but will be at least $30 per team. The problem is also yet to be determined but the tentative topic involves gay marriage. The oral advocacy rounds begin on April 19 and run through April 23. Please contact Tom Baisch (tbaisch@u.washington.edu) with any questions or concerns, and feel free to stop by the Moot Court Honor Board’s Office in Room 129 where there is usually a representative present to help out.

DISCUSSION ON CRITICAL RACE THEORY:

W.H. Knight, Jr., Dean of the University of Washington School of Law, will discuss how Critical Race Theory can help us understand the role race plays in the legal profession and classroom.

When: Tuesday, March 2, 2004
Time: 3:30-5:00pm
Where: William H. Gates Hall, Room 119

Sponsored by the Latino/a Law Student Association

Before coming to the UW in 2001, Dean Knight was a professor at the University of Iowa College of Law. He also served as Vice Provost of the University from 1997-2000. An expert in commercial law, Knight has authored three books on the subject and taught courses in banking, contracts and commercial transactions. He has also taught seminars on international banking and critical race theory.

Knight grew up in Winston-Salem, N.C. and attended the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he earned degrees in economics, speech and political science. He attended Columbia University School of Law in New York City and was a member of the Columbia Human Rights Law Review. Prior to becoming a faculty member, Knight worked in New York City as a labor lawyer and in Connecticut with a large bank holding company.

He is a frequent speaker and presenter at universities and law-related programs around the nation. Recently, he has given talks about last year's U.S. Supreme Court decision in Grutter v. Michigan. Knight is currently working with local legislators to amend Washington's Initiative 200, which banned racially based admissions programs in higher education. He sees this work as an opportunity to “reaffirm our commitment to building a rich and diverse educational environment.”

The Pacific Rim Law & Policy Journal is pleased to announce the publication of Volume 13.1!

Volume 13.1 also also contains student comments from 3Ls authors Bryn Floyd, Nathan Garnett, Beth Kinne, Dustin Lane, Steven Masada, Sam Rodabaugh and Hannah Saona. Congratulations to all of these authors on a job well done.

The Washington Law Review is pleased to announce the NEW Editor-in-Chief for 2004-2005, volume 80:

JOHN BRUST

Please join me in congratulating John on his election to this position. He was elected by a majority of his peers and will begin his term in June.

Congratulations John!
