The Crier consists of "Law School Announcements and Meeting Notices", "Law Library News", and "Student Calendar and News." Items for all sections should be submitted to Academic Services by 12:00pm on the Thursday prior. Academic Services produces The Crier. E-mail submissions may be sent to: lawnews@u.washington.edu.

FROM THE DEAN

As many of you have noted to me in passing, it’s been quite a while since my last Crier article. Like each of you, I have been far busier than reason should allow. In the past, I have written about how each of us needs to find a way to balance the demands of school, family and life’s vicissitudes. There are times when it seems that there are some unnecessary and unbalancing weights on the scales. It is hard to keep things in perspective when each demand seems to loom larger than all the others. How can I spend time with my family when I still have reading to do? How can I prepare for class when I have a BLS paper or journal article due? As I sat today during the oral arguments to our State Court of Appeals, I thought that the time horizon for exams had already risen—many of you are busy preparing for those forthcoming exams and did not see the including of another ball in your juggling act. This assertion seems especially true for ILs who are taking your first set of examinations for a grade. The stress levels are rising and the sense of anxiety is becoming palpable. So, I write to you today to encourage everyone to worry less, not more.

Yes, it may seem odd for the Dean to tell students to worry less. However, if you had spoken to as many people as I have, you would see that more than a few people are too close to the edge and need help to move away from the precipice. A few days ago, I received a message from one of our colleagues. The power of that person’s language led me to include it in this message. During orientation, I told ILs to look to their left and right. No one who puts forth the efforts that each of you has this year, no one of you is likely to fail. Instead, in September, I said that each of us needs to get to know the person to her or his right or left. I encouraged each of you to take care of each other. As you read the “Crier Crasher’s” letter, I hope that each of you will learn to focus on those balls that are most important for you to keep in the juggling balance. White it may sound blasphemous to say it, your friends, family and health are all more important than your grade in any class! That’s not to say you shouldn’t study. Rather, each of us needs to keep matters in perspective. You are no good to yourself nor can you help others if you are not constantly working to find a healthy life balance.

As you read the following letter, ask yourself whether you have had similar emotions. If you see

WINTER QUARTER ROOM CHANGES

A581 Washington Con Law Seminar (Spitzer): Will meet in room 133 on Monday, Mar. 8th.

E506 Asian Contract Law (Linnan): Will meet in room 119 on Monday, Mar. 8th.

WINTER QUARTER EXAMINATIONS

Exam numbers

First year students will get a new exam number to be used with their Winter Quarter exams. Please come to Academic Services beginning on March 1st to get your new number. You must have it before the end of the quarter on March 12.

Other students will use the same number that they received for their Autumn Quarter exams. All students are expected to have their exam number with them for each exam. Students who do not have their exam number will have to use exam time to get it.

Winter Quarter exams are scheduled for March 15 – 20. Students are responsible for reviewing the exam instructions (at www.law.washington.edu/students) prior to their examinations.

Use of Computers

Students may use computers in the taking of Winter Quarter exams only in those courses where clearance is specifically granted. Students should always bring bluebooks to use in case they have any problems with planned use of a computer. No additional time will be permitted in the exam period due to computer related problems. Each student is bound by the honor code in all aspects of the examination process.

SPRING REGISTRATION REMINDER:

Students who have add codes for Spring Quarter classes must register by Sunday, March 7th, or risk losing their space in the class. Wait lists will be updated beginning Monday, March 8th.
aspects of your life in this letter, you need to remember those people who were at your left and right during orientation. Seek those people out. Talk to each other, help each other. It is the concern and sense of responsibility for others that makes a real community. If we don’t take care of each other, who will?

The Column Crasher’s Anonymous Words of Wonder.

So this column is meant to be a WAKE UP CALL. The end of the quarter is rapidly approaching and with it comes the specter of increased stress and anxiety. Yeah, I know you’ve heard it all before but listen again.

Whether you want to know it or not, some of your fellow law students are not dealing especially well with the stresses of law school. It is not that we don’t want to be here, it’s just we get somewhat overwhelmed at times. We might drink a little too much to take the edge off, or get depressed or anxious (or even all of the above). But chances are we won’t let anyone know until it somehow goes beyond our control. Why don’t we let you know? Because you will find us weak or think less of us, or maybe our competitive edge will be lost. Don’t mistake my light tone for thinking I don’t take this seriously.

I am the person who sits next to you in Crim. Pro., Civil Pro., or Civil Rights. You wouldn’t have a clue that I tried to kill myself last week. You probably think I am on the ball and might even secretly fear I will steal away one of the “A”s off the mandatory curve, or get the summer job you want. No, I don’t want to quit law school, it is just that my way of dealing with stress is to think of killing myself, others out there drink, become irritable, or isolate themselves from everyone else.

You might think I am just weak, but the statistics say a third of us as lawyers will be somehow impaired either by drugs, alcohol or mental health issues at any given time. So look around to your left, to your right and to yourself. Chances are one of us will end up impaired at sometime. OK so let’s go into denial and say it will never be us; well then chances are it will be one of your friends. As we progress in our careers our friends will become law professors (don’t forget Professor Fitzpatrick) or Judges (don’t forget Justice Bridge). So are we willing to work at being healthy now or wait until we get suspended, arrested or end up dead?

I am not a psychiatrist or any other type of mental health or drug counselor, but I have seen firsthand the effects of stress on myself, my classmates, and others in our chosen profession. Joke if you will at the flyer that was put in our mailboxes. It may not be you this time, but be aware, watch out for yourself and your friends.

So what do I suggest? I am not really sure but I think it is something that we as a community need to look at seriously. I didn’t reach out to my friends or professors. I was afraid they would somehow look down on me. Heck I am still afraid, why do you think this is anonymous? But I ended up getting help and am working on dealing with stress. I won’t be better tomorrow or next week, but maybe, with help, I will be a productive attorney in our society ready to give more than I take.

NOTICE: This in no way necessarily reflects the views or opinions of Dean Knight, I just decided to jump in and steal his column space.

Legal Research Position

Professor Robert Aronson is in need of one or more students to serve as Legal Research Assistant(s) beginning in the summer 2004. Research assistants will research such issues as Evidence, Criminal Law, Professional Responsibility, Law, Literature & Film, and Sports Law, and will draft and edit memoranda and portions of books and articles in those areas. Research and writing on pending legal malpractice cases may also be required.

Students who think they may be interested in the position should submit an application to Professor Aronson (Rm. 308 or 543-7423) or Francis Timlin (Rm. 385 or 685-1549). The application should contain a resume (need not be formal), a writing sample, the name of the student's Basic Legal Skills professor, and a statement of the minimum and desired number of hours per week the student would like to work. Students who are likely to be work-study qualified should so indicate; that factor is important, and may be decisive. First-year students are encouraged to apply, although second-year students will of course also be considered. Professor Aronson will begin considering applicants on March 1.

Those students desiring additional information concerning the nature of the job, working conditions, etc., should contact Professor Aronson (raron@u.washington.edu) or present and previous research assistants: Robin Chang (third year), Hannah Saona (third year) or Holly Vance (second year).
SEED IP LAW GROUP FOUNDERS SCHOLARSHIP
Applications are now being accepted for the 2004-2005 Seed IP Law Group Founders Scholarship. The Seed IP Law Group Founders Scholarship commemorates the contribution of the firm’s founders, Richard Seed and Ben Berry, to excellence in Intellectual Property legal work. Ben and Dick were both recognized as leaders in the I.P. field and together they founded and built one of the top I.P. firms in the country. In honor of their contribution, this scholarship recognizes excellence in an I.P. student at the University of Washington School of Law. To receive the scholarship, the student must be enrolled in the I.P. concentration program, either for the JD or LLM programs. Applications should include (1) a cover letter explaining the applicant's qualifications, (2) a resume, and (3) two letters of recommendation (preferably faculty members). A Seed IP Scholarship Committee composed of local practitioners and law faculty reviews applications. The deadline for submission is May 28th, 2004. Application materials should be turned in to the Financial Aid Office.

2004-2005 TAKUJI YAMASHITA ENDOWED MEMORIAL SCHOLARSHIP
The Takuji Yamashita Memorial Scholarship was established in 2001 by his descendants and friends to provide assistance to students of Asian decent enrolled in the School of Law who have demonstrated a particular interest in human and civil rights. Takuji Yamashita, a native of Japan was among the first students enrolled at the University of Washington School of Law in 1900. Distinguishing himself for his skills in moot court, he graduated in 1902. He later passed the bar examination. However the laws at the time did not allow non-citizens to be admitted to the bar and people of Japanese decent were not allowed to become American citizens. On March 1, 2001, the Washington State Supreme Court posthumously admitted Takuji Yamashita to the Washington State Bar. In recognition of Takuji Yamashita’s place in the history of American civil rights, the history of the legal profession in the State of Washington and the history of the University of Washington School of Law, we will award this scholarship in his honor each year.

Scholarship: Approximately $2,000 for the 2004-2005 academic year.
Application: Applicants will submit a one-page description of their demonstrated interest in international human and civil rights. Although not required, you may also submit a letter of recommendation and a resume as part of your application. Application materials should be turned in to the Financial Aid Office. Deadline: May 28, 2004

LESAI AWARD
The School of Law is pleased to announce the establishment of the Lesani Award, an annual award of $500 to a JD law student (in good standing) who plans to be actively involved as a lawyer in one of the following areas:

1. Civil Rights & Civil Liberties
2. Human Rights
3. Immigration

Preference will first be given to a student who best demonstrates that as an attorney, he or she will be actively involved in defending civil rights and civil liberties. If there is no qualified student, the award will be given to a student planning to be actively involved in human rights law. If it is determined that there is also no student who is planning to be active in human rights law, the award will be given to a student demonstrating an intent to be actively involved in rights of immigrants.

The Lesani Award was established by Anthony B. Ravani to honor his deceased father-in-law who always valued Civil Rights/Liberties. Mr. Ravani understands that lawyers are key in upholding civil rights, civil liberties, human rights, and rights of immigrants. By creating this award, he hopes to give encouragement to law students who will be active in these areas of law as practicing attorneys.

This award is not contingent upon financial need. A faculty committee will select the recipient based upon an application consisting of a cover letter and resume. Please submit applications to the Financial Aid Office no later than noon March 12, 2004.

JOHN H. AND GEORGE V. POWELL ENDOWED AWARD FOR HUMAN RIGHTS
I am very pleased to announce the third annual John H. and George V. Powell Award for Human Rights. This award provides assistance to J.D. students doing summer internships or externships in the area of Human Rights and Justice. The scholarship fund will award $1,500 in financial assistance. Applicants will submit a one-page paper describing their Human Rights summer opportunity. Recipients will be selected by the Dean upon the recommendation of faculty members in accordance with the donor’s terms. Papers should be submitted to the Financial Aid Office by April 9, 2004.
MARY ELLEN KRUG SCHOLARSHIP FOR 3L'S
Applications are now being accepted for the Mary Ellen Krug Scholarship Awards. An award will be made to the student or students who have demonstrated both an interest and proficiency in the fields of labor and employment law and related subjects. The amount of the awards may vary. Applications should include (1) a cover letter explaining the applicant's qualifications, (2) a resume, and (3) two letters of recommendation (preferably faculty members). A Krug Scholarship Committee composed of local practitioners and law professors reviews applications. Applications should be submitted to Arlo Hammontree in the Financial Aid Office (room 362). The deadline for submission is March 12, 2004.

OUTSIDE FELLOWSHIPS, SCHOLARSHIPS & WRITING CONTESTS
Copies of materials and further information for the fellowships, scholarships & writing competitions listed below is available in room 362.

Rocky Mountain Mineral Law Foundation
This grant program was established to promote the study of natural resources at law schools across the country.

American Society for Industrial Security
The Puget Sound Chapter of the ASIS seeks applications from students who are interested in the security profession and who have demonstrated a potential to make a contribution to the field of security. Annual awards are from $500 to $1,500. Applications must be received by May 31, 2004.

Loren Miller Bar Association
The Philip L. Burton Bar Exam Preparation Scholarship is to assist third year students of color in paying the cost of attending a Bar Exam Preparation course. Two scholarships of $1,500 will go to students attending Washington State law schools. Deadline for applications is April 1, 2004.

Federal Circuit Bar Association
An award of $10,000, in memory of Giles S. Rich will be given to a law student showing financial need and demonstrated academic promise. Deadline for submissions is April 30, 2004.

U.S. government documents are integrated into the library collection and are accessible through MARIAN. Print and electronic tools to find specific congressional materials such as bills, hearings, and committee reports are also available. Many of our government publications are in paper or microfiche and some are electronic. If you need assistance in locating and retrieving a government publication, please ask. Reference assistance is available in the Reference Office on L1 (206-543-6794). Remember, law students can also email questions to us.

Electronic access to a wide variety of government information is available through GPO Access. This is the place to look for official electronic copies of Federal regulations, laws, and legislative history documents.

Looking for something not law-related? UW Libraries Government Publications, located on the ground floor of Suzzallo Library, is also a depository for U.S. government publications. It has an extensive current and historical collection and a great reference staff.

Good luck on your exams!

U.S. GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS
---Peggy Jarrett, Documents & Reference Librarian

What do these ten titles have in common?

Cloning Human Beings
Code of Federal Regulations
Congressional Record
Economics of U.S. Tort Liability
International Law and the War on Terror
Schools and Religion
Sourcebook of Criminal Justice Statistics
United States Attorneys’ Manual
United States Statutes at Large
United States Tax Court Reports

All are United States government publications received through the Law Library’s participation in the Federal Depository Library Program. Administered by the Government Printing Office (GPO), a Congressional agency, the depository program distributes print, microfiche, and electronic government publications (often called “documents”) to participating libraries. In return, the libraries agree to house and provide public access to these materials. The Gallagher Law Library has been a depository library since 1969.

As shown by the sample of titles above, our depository collection focuses on legal and law-related documents, including congressional materials, administrative regulations, administrative decisions, and presidential papers.

Joan Fitzpatrick Conference on Human Rights

On February 27-29, Amnesty International and the Urban Morgan Institute for Human Rights sponsored the Joan Fitzpatrick Human Rights Conference at the University of Cincinnati College of Law. We were privileged to attend the Conference which honored the work and life of our late teacher and colleague.

We were well aware of Joan’s great achievements as a teacher and as a scholar, but we were pleasantly surprised, and very proud, to hear speaker after speaker acknowledge Joan’s achievements as both a scholar and an advocate for international human rights.

More than 20 speakers spoke on a vast array of human rights issues. All acknowledged the impact of Joan’s work on their own scholarship and activism. Some speakers co-authored books and articles with Joan. Others worked with her on briefs involving human rights litigation. We witnessed a group of scholars and activists who came together to celebrate Joan’s life and work in a working conference devoted to advancing the cause of basic human rights in the United States and in the world.

We are grateful to the organizations that sponsored this event, and especially to Professor Bert Lockwood, the Director of the Urban Morgan Institute for Human Rights. They took great care to make this conference a dignified and ennobling tribute to Joan Fitzpatrick. The brochure for the conference features a park bench tribute (in Chicago, Illinois) by an unknown artist who quotes these words of Joan Fitzpatrick: “We play a pivotal role in the human rights community. It’s important that we care, and that we choose to act.”

We are grateful for Joan’s presence in our own lives, and we are also grateful that we were privileged to attend this conference in her honor.

JUDSON FALKNOR APPELLATE ADVOCACY COMPETITION COMING SOON!

The Judson Falknor Appellate Advocacy Competition is coming up soon. The competition is open to second and third year law students and all competitors will earn two academic credits for their efforts. Along with earning credit, the competition is a great chance for students to practice their appellate skills. Exceptional performers will be invited on to the Moot Court Honor Board and may represent the UW at regional and national competitions. The registration period begins on March 3 and runs through March 12. A sign up sheet will be posted outside the Moot Court Office. The entrance fee is yet to be determined but will be at least $30 per team. The problem is also yet to be determined but the tentative topic involves gay marriage. The oral advocacy rounds begin on April 19 and run through April 23. Please contact Tom Baisch (tbaisch@u.washington.edu) with any questions or concerns, and feel free to stop by the Moot Court Honor Board’s Office in Room 129 where there is usually a representative present to help out.
BLSA ANNOUNCES JUDGE WILLIAM W. BAKER, FROM THE BENCH.

Black Law Students Association (BLSA) is proud to announce Judge William W. Baker, Thursday, March 11, 2004 at 12:30pm in Room 127. Judge Baker will discuss “Winning Techniques in Litigation”

Judge Baker is a graduate of Stanford and the University of Washington School of Law. He clerked for the State Supreme Court, and had an active trial practice in Everett for 23 years before his January 1990 appointment to the Court of Appeals, Division I. He has served as Chief Judge of Division I and as Presiding Chief Judge of the full Court of Appeals. He serves on the Board for Judicial Administration, which is the governing body for Washington state courts, and is chair of its legislative committee. As a judge he has served on the Gender and Justice, and Minority and Justice Commissions, was vice-chair of a special commission reviewing Washington’s procedures for selection and retention of judges. Judge Baker is a founding member and president of the Washington State Chapter of the American Judicature Society, an organization dedicated to improving the administration of justice.

In his private practice, he was active in numerous professional and community activities, including service as chair of the State Bar Legislative Committee and an original member and chair of the Judicial Conduct Commission.

We invite all law students to join us for this lecture. From the Bench is an excellent opportunity to learn from and interact with Judge Baker in a less formal atmosphere. A light lunch will be served. Save the date, and we’ll see you March 11, 2004, 12:30pm, Room 127, at From the Bench!

If you have any questions, please contact James Curtis: jcurtis@u.washington.edu or Kendall Bodden: kendallb@u.washington.edu.

REPUBLICAN PRESIDENTIAL CAUCUSES

The American Constitution Society would like to remind students that the Washington Republican Presidential Nominating Precinct Caucuses will be held next Tuesday, March 9th, at 7:30pm. Precinct caucuses are your opportunity to help select your party's nominee for President, help shape the party's platform, and begin the process of becoming a delegate to the state or national party convention! More info about the caucuses and caucus locations is available at: http://www.kcgop.org/.

ACS is a non-partisan organization of progressives in the legal community, and does not endorse any particular political parties or candidates for office. This announcement is part of ACS-UW's Presidential Caucus Participation Project, an effort to encourage all law students, regardless of party, to get engaged in public life. Questions about the project can be directed to selinad@u.washington.edu.

ABA BUSINESS LAW SECTION SPRING MEETING

The American Bar Association's Business Law Section is coming to Seattle April 1-4! The Section's Spring Meeting is a remarkable opportunity to learn about cutting-edge issues in corporate law, meet leading practitioners and academics in the field, and begin building your own national professional network!

More than 50 programs and forums will be presented on topics ranging from: "Internet Jurisdiction" to "European Merger Control Reform: Everything the M&A Lawyer Needs to Know" to "Hot Topics in Nonprofit Corporations Law" to "Hot Topics in Native American Gaming," to "How to Build a Successful Firm, Corporate, or Government Career." The Section is also sponsoring networking and mentoring programs specifically for law students! More info about the programs to be presented and how to register for the Meeting is available at: http://www.abanet.org/buslaw/2004spring/home.shtml

Registration is FREE for law students - BUT you have to be a law student member of the ABA (just $20 for the year) AND the Business Law Section (FREE for ABA Law Student members!) To join the ABA or the Section today, call: 1-800-285-2221 between 7:30am and 5:30pm, CST. Then register for the meeting on-line by March 12th to be listed in the Directory, or plan to register on-site at the Meeting. Questions? Contact ABA Rep Selina Davis at selinad@u.washington.edu.
Last reminder: Applications for ABA-LSD Liaison positions due March 15th!

Service as a Law Student Division Liaison to an American Bar Association Section, Forum, Committee or Commission is an amazing opportunity to work closely with leaders in the profession, help increase student participation in the ABA, and learn about emerging issues in a field or area that interests you. In addition, many of the host entities pay for part or all of their ABA-LSD Liaison's travel and lodging expenses for quarterly or semi-annual meetings held around the country.

Contact ABA Rep and ABA-LSD Administrative Law Section Liaison Selina Davis at selinad@u.washington.edu if you have questions, and see: http://www.abanet.org/lsd/elections/home.html#liaison for information about participating entities and application procedures.

Each year, the Washington Law Review considers papers submitted by second-year students and may select new members based on those papers. If you are a second-year student who has completed, or intends to complete your analytic by the end of winter quarter, the Washington Law Review invites you to submit your paper for consideration. This year, the Washington Law Review intends to invite up to 2 new members to join the law review based on this competition.

Papers must be submitted to the Office of Academic Services in Room 364 of William H. Gates Hall by 1:00 p.m. on Friday, April 9, 2004.

Information regarding the Washington Law Review, competition details, paper expectations, and the selection process is attached, and available online by visiting the Washington Law Review website at http://www.law.washington.edu/wlr/membership.htm. If you have any additional questions please contact Joe Rehberger at rehberge@u.washington.edu.

LAWYERPALOOZA VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

The Lawyerpalooza organizing committee at Lane Powell Spears Lubersky is looking for volunteers to work both the day before, and the day of this year's Lawyerpalooza function. This fund-raising event benefits public school music programs recently slashed by budget cuts. We would like three or four volunteers on Sunday, May 9, to help carry equipment and escort band members through the maze of corridors beneath the Fairmont Olympic Hotel. On Monday, May 10, we need around 15 people to work at the event itself. Duties include but are not limited to selling tickets and handling will-call, and basically anything else that is needed. This is a very worthwhile and fun event. The sponsors, participants, and attendees are members of Seattle's legal community. If you think you might be interested in participating, please contact Stephanie Hanson at 206-223-7134, or hansons@lanepowell.com. Take a look at the website www.lawyerpalooza.com for some of the highlights from last year's event.
