SPRING QUARTER REGISTRATION

The first registration deadline is March 5th.

2L, 3L, and LL.M. students who do not register by this deadline may lose their spots in their courses which have “accept” status.

Spring Quarter registration began last week. Course schedules and students’ adjusted schedules are available at www.law.washington.edu/students. Each student should check their online adjusted schedule for updates, particularly if they are on a waitlist. There will be updates during this week as spots open in classes.

Students need to register for all their Spring Quarter classes including those that continue from the Winter Quarter.

WINTER QUARTER FINAL EXAMS!

The Winter Quarter exam schedule is online at http://www.law.washington.edu/students/ExamSchedule.html.

Students who have more than one exam in a day, or 3 or more in consecutive calendar days may request a reschedule for a later date. Exam reschedule requests are due to Academic Services, room 361, by Friday, March 3rd.

DO NOT DISCUSS RESCHEDULING AN EXAM WITH THE PROFESSOR!

Exam Instructions

Exam Instructions can be found at http://www.law.washington.edu/Students/examInstructions.html. Each student is responsible for knowing and following these instructions.

YOUR QUESTIONS

Question:

Law students cannot access the 3rd and 4th floors of Gates Hall any more. What is the reason for this policy change?

Answer:

Maintaining a balance between security in the law school and access is very difficult. At the time of the Town Hall Meeting law students could no longer get to floors 3 and 4 after hours and on the weekends. Since that meeting, we have been able to program our security system so that law students have access to floors 3 and 4 (using their Husky card in the elevator) from 6am to 9pm Monday through Friday. Any student found on either floor and not working with a Faculty or Staff member after 10pm will be asked to leave the floor.

-- Francis W. (Bill) Thornton, Director, Finance & Administration (adolphin@u.washington.edu)

Question:

When library patron does something intimidating, like staring at me until I feel uncomfortable, what shall I do?

Answer:

Please report this behavior immediately to any library staff person. They will call building security or the campus police. Whoever investigates will want to talk with the person who reported the disruptive behavior. If the library patron has violated the Library Code of Conduct, the patron will be asked to leave the premises.

CAPAL SCHOLARSHIPS ($2,000)
FEBRUARY 15, 2006

On behalf of the Conference on Asian Pacific American Leadership (CAPAL), I am excited to announce that CAPAL will award three (3) scholarships to outstanding Asian Pacific American (APA) students committed to public service and community action.

Awarded annually since 1992, CAPAL’s scholarships have enabled promising students with leadership potential to explore public service and learn how to influence public policy that affects our communities. CAPAL Scholars are awarded $2,000 scholarships to support their successful completion of an internship in Washington, DC, as well as their development of a Community Action Plan.

CAPAL is a 501(c)(3) non-profit, non-partisan, educational organization that was founded in 1989 by APA professionals in the Washington, DC metropolitan area. Its mission is to promote Asian Pacific American interests and success in public sector careers, to provide information and education on policy issues affecting the APA community, and to serve the APA community at large.

For more details or to download the application, please visit our website at http://www.capal.org or email questions to scholarships@capal.org.

All applications must be received by Friday, March 17, 2006.

Sincerely,
Candace J. Chin
Chair, CAPAL Scholarship Committee

Law Library News
Kristy Moon, Editor

New Display – Nuremberg Tribunal

The Law School recently hosted the Amnesty International Lawyers’ Conference, in conjunction with the Law School’s Fitzpatrick Fund and Condon-Falknor Lecture. The theme of the conference was “Fulfilling the Legacy: International Justice 60 Years After Nuremberg.” In honor of the event, the Law Library is featuring a new display on the Nuremberg Tribunal. The display is located in the two glass cases, just outside of the Library’s doors.

The Law Library is fortunate to have in its collection trial documents from the Nuremberg Tribunal: a set of the original transcripts of proceedings and English translations of documents submitted to the International Military Tribunal (Nov. 1945 - Oct. 1946) and the United States Nuremberg Military Tribunal “Subsequent Proceedings” (Nov. 1946 – Nov. 1948). These materials were distributed to thirteen organizations by the Office of the U.S. Chief of Counsel for War Crimes. This set of over 1,200 bound volumes include trial transcripts, exhibits (e.g., translated documents, photographs), and procedural material.

Due to the rare and fragile nature of these materials, they’re kept in a nonpublic area; you can make special arrangements to use them. Many materials and some transcripts from the trials are available online at the Harvard Law Library’s Nuremberg Trials Project (http://nuremberg.law.harvard.edu) and the Yale Law School’s Avalon Project (http://www.yale.edu/lawweb/avalon/imt/imt.htm).

Free Movie Rentals
by Ann Hemmens

Do you need a break from studying? Are you living on a budget and tired of paying for movie tickets? Maybe you subscribe to NetFlix (where you can rent DVDs online for a monthly fee). Or maybe you just stop in your neighborhood video rental store (Scarcecrow, Broadway Market Video, Rain City Video) on Friday night looking for a good video. But you can also rent videos for free from the UW Libraries. The Media Center in the Odegaard Undergraduate Library (on Red Square) has more than 25,000 items in a variety of formats (VHS, DVD, compact discs, and audiotapes).

How can you find a video? Search the UW Libraries Catalog by author, title, or keyword. One tip: use the Advanced Keyword Search (http://catalog.lib.washington.edu/search/X), type the name of an actor (e.g., Johnny Depp) in the “Any Field” segment, select the “Videos, Slides, Media” in the “Publication Type” segment, and select the location of “Odegaard Undergraduate Library.” You’ll see that the movies Finding Neverland, Benny & Joon, and Chocolat are available.

Another way to find videos is to browse the lists of videos, DVDs, and CDs (http://www.lib.washington.edu/media/searches.html). This webpage includes links to titles of videos organized by the following categories:

- New Arrivals
- Films by Genre (e.g., comedy, detective & mystery, documentary, horror)
- Films by Country (e.g., Brazil, Japan, Netherlands)
- Other Genres (e.g., biographical, travelogues, music videos)
- Television Genres (e.g., animated, reality programs, television programs (e.g., 24, Alias, and Buffy the Vampire Slayer))

If you are still searching for the perfect video to watch, check out the Internet Movie Database (http://www.imdb.com/). Search this free “catalog of movies” by title or keyword, or browse their lists of “Top 250 films” and “Award Winners.” Once you find a title you want, search the UW Libraries Catalog (http://catalog.lib.washington.edu/search) to see if it is available on campus.

UW Libraries Media Center (http://www.lib.washington.edu/media/) videos have a three-day loan period. An item can be renewed online up to three times, if no one else has placed a hold on it. There is a four-day “grace period” to return the item, but they do charge overdue fines. Pick up a free video at the Media Center in Odegaard Library to watch tonight.

Book of the Week: Rights and Liberties in the Biotech Age: Why We Need a Genetic Bill of Rights
-- Mary Whisner

In 2000, the Council for Responsible Genetics – a non-profit group based in Cambridge, MA – proposed a Genetic Bill of Rights. The ten articles of the Bill of Rights address such diverse topics as biodiversity, patent rights in living organisms, genetically modified food, genetic discrimination, and defendants’ access to DNA testing in criminal proceedings.

Last year, the Council for Responsible Genetics brought out a book with essays addressing each of the ten articles. The authors are activists, scientists, and scholars from many disciplines.

As you would think from the subtitle (“Why We Need a Genetic Bill of Rights”), the editors did not try to present all sides of each issue, although there is some diversity among the positions favoring the Bill of Rights. For instance, Article 3 provides: “All people have the right to a food supply that has not been genetically engineered.” The three authors writing in that section of the book raise different concerns, from uncertainty about the safety of genetically engineered food to the need for Third World farmers to be independent of multinational seed companies to the cultural importance of different strains of maize to the Mexican people.

Professor Paul Steven Miller, who used to be a commissioner of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, wrote a piece in the section about genetic discrimination, with a focus on discrimination in the workplace.

Students interested in criminal work might be interested in the two pieces on exculpatory DNA evidence. One of the pieces was written by two lawyers from the Innocence Project at Benjamin N. Cardozo School of Law.

The book is at TP248.23 .R545 2005 at Classified Stacks (on L2).

2L RULE 9 INTERNSHIPS FOR 2006-07
UW Student Legal Services, located in the HUB, seeks four 2L students to work 10-15 hours per week as Rule 9 legal interns from autumn 2006 through spring 2007. $15 per hour; work-study OK. May also work as extern. Must be Rule 9 eligible by autumn quarter 2006. Open until filled.

Email a cover letter (up to 300 words on why you want to work at SLS and what you can offer SLS), resume, and three references to:
Carole Grayson, Director and Staff Attorney
cag8@u.washington.edu
University of Washington Student Legal Services
Box 352236, HUB G-16
Seattle, WA 98195-2236

Are you a 2L who is weary of the books and yearning for real client contact and court experience? UW Student Legal Services may be for you! You’ll educate, advise, negotiate, appear in court, grapple with ethical issues, and do everything real lawyers do (except, hopefully, grind your teeth).

SLS has provided effective and affordable legal assistance to UW students for 35 years. Our clients have real legal needs: landlord-tenant, family law, criminal, traffic, insurance, debtor-creditor, consumer, estate planning.

THE JUDICIAL CLERKSHIP INSTITUTE
March 16-18, 2006
Pepperdine University School of Law
Malibu, California

Pepperdine University School of Law is hosting The Judicial Clerkship Institute for current clerks, law students, and graduates entering federal clerkships. The program is designed to prepare these individuals to excel as judicial clerks by giving them a better perspective of what a judicial clerkship entails, learning critical areas of law from some of the foremost leaders in academia, and networking with prominent judges nationwide.

The program will run from March 16 through March 18. More details and the registration form are available on http://law.pepperdine.edu/jci/. The deadline for registration and fees is Wednesday, March 1. To register, please fill out the registration form and e-mail it to Patty Hayes at patty.hayes@pepperdine.edu.

Direct any questions about the Judicial Clerkship Institute to Patty Hayes at 310.506.4654, or patty.hayes@pepperdine.edu. If unable to afford the registration fee, please contact Patty Hayes about a possible fee waiver by Friday, February 24.

NEW PROGRAM:
FALL 2006 SEMESTER IN BERGEN, NORWAY
Informational briefing on Thursday, March 2, at 12:30 in Room 138

Human Rights and International Law: A European Perspective

During Fall Semester 2006 (August 15 to December 12), the Jackson School of International Studies will organize a program of study at the Law Faculty of the University of Bergen, Norway. This program offers students a unique opportunity for undergraduate students to earn 20 or more UW credits while living and studying in an exciting city in western Norway. Law students are eligible to participate and may earn up to 15 credits towards their J.D. degree. Law students should discuss their course of study in advance with Professor Mary Hotchkiss or Professor Rick Lorenz.

Norway is the home of the Nobel Peace Prize and has been a major contributor to humanitarian causes, far in excess of countries of similar size. Norway has played important peace-making and peacekeeping roles in dozens of conflicts around the globe, from Guatemala to Colombia, Cyprus, Sudan and Sri Lanka. Described as the "Gateway to the Fjords", the city of Bergen lies nestled among the coastal mountains in western Norway. This program will be centered at the Law School of the University of Bergen and will focus on international human rights and humanitarian law. For more detailed information please see the web page at: http://jsis.washington.edu/advise/catalog/Bergen2006.html

UW School of Law Jessup International Moot Court Team Wins Regional Competition

The University of Washington School of Law team won the southwest regional Jessup International Moot Court Competition at the University of Texas at Austin, February 18-19, 2006. The team, comprised of students Mohamed Rali Badissy, David Martin, Travis Exstrom, Jenny Houghton and Kim Cozzetto, is one of ten to advance to the international championship in Washington, DC, March 26, 2006.

Students Exstrom and Martin were awarded best and second best speaker, respectively, and the team won the award for best memorial. Coached by Professors Kristen Stilt and Joel Ngugi, the team won both semifinal and final rounds by unanimous vote of the judges.

The Jessup Competition, administered by the International Law Students Association (ILSA), is widely recognized as the largest and most prestigious international law moot court competition in the world. Law students from all over the world participate in the annual competition, which focuses on international and transnational law.

In addition to participation in the competition, the UW School of Law will host a Jessup Regional Competition Friday, February 24 in Gates Hall.

IS THE GOVERNMENT ABOVE THE LAW?

Join John R. Connelly, President of the Washington State Trial Lawyers Association, on Monday February 27 at 12:30 in Room 119. Mr. Connelly's practice includes claims against governmental entities for civil rights violations and negligent supervision of criminal offenders. Mr. Connelly recently prevailed in argument before the Washington Supreme Court, which held that the State had a duty to take reasonable care to protect the public from reasonably foreseeable dangers posed by parolees. Joyce v. State, 119 P.3d 825 (2005).

The Washington State Trial Lawyers Association represents attorneys and professionals in the legal field committed to champion the cause of those who deserve redress for injury to person, property or civil rights. WSTLA members practice in the areas of Civil Rights, Consumer Protection, Criminal Defense, Elder Abuse, Employment Law, Family Law, Insurance, Maritime, Medical Negligence, Product Liability, and Worker's Compensation.

Lunch will be provided. If you have questions, please contact Janet Green, jtgreen@u.washington.edu. For more information about WSTLA, go to www.wstla.org.
