SUMMER 2006 COURSE OFFERINGS
The Summer Quarter class schedule is now online at http://www.law.washington.edu/students/registration/SummerQuarter2006.pdf.

PLANNING FOR YOUR 2006-07 CLASSES
The planning packet with next year’s courses and the block schedules for each quarter are now online at www.law.washington.edu/students. Each student who will be here for classes next year needs to submit choices. The deadlines are listed in the packet.

SPRING QUARTER FINAL EXAMS
The exam schedule can be found online at http://www.law.washington.edu/Students/examSchedule.html. There is a link for the separate compressed class exam period (May 18-20).

Students who have more than one exam on the same day or more than two exams in consecutive calendar days, may complete a exam reschedule request to move an exam to a later date (as an automatic approval).

Students with other needs may submit a request through Academic Services for a reschedule of an exam.

DO NOT CONTACT YOUR PROFESSOR ABOUT RESCHEDULING AN EXAM.

Variation from the original exam time will be permitted only for an automatic reason (noted above), severe mental or physical illness, or very unusual or demanding circumstances that make it unreasonably difficult or burdensome to meet the scheduled time. Rescheduling exam is not done generally for activities such as travel, field research, interviews (personal or school related) and other personal events such as weddings, reunions, etc.

Law School Low-Income Taxpayer Clinic Receives IRS Grant

The University of Washington School of Law Low-Income Taxpayer Clinic (LITC) received a $97,250 grant from the Internal Revenue Service. The UW law school's clinic was one of only nine to receive the maximum grant award.

"By assisting low-income clients with their IRS problems, we are able to help people resolve tax disputes, which to them seem unsolvable," said clinic director Scott Schumacher. "At the same time, students in the program get invaluable experience working with real clients who have real problems, and learn how to deal with the IRS and complex tax issues."

The UW law school's clinic was established in 2000 to assist low-income individuals throughout Western Washington resolve disputes with the IRS. The clinic, which is funded by a federal matching grant and the law school's Graduate Program in Taxation, offers this assistance as a public service and as a means of training law students in tax practice.

The IRS formally announced the 2006 grant recipients on April 14, 2006. A total of $8 million in matching grants were awarded to 150 LITCs for 2006, 32 of which are operated out of law schools. The IRS LITC grant program, now in its eighth year, encourages the creation and growth of clinics across the nation. LITCs provide free or nominal cost assistance to taxpayers who otherwise may not be able to afford a tax professional.

Aid for Summer

Summer Quarter is the first quarter of the 2006-2007 academic year. The types and amounts of aid available are limited. The first step in applying for summer aid is to submit a 2006-2007 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) to the central processor. Then, after the UW has received the FAFSA information (about 2 weeks for FAFSA on the Web, or 4-6 weeks for paper FAFSAs), complete and submit the summer aid application.

Applying for Summer Aid:

If you have submitted your FAFSA as indicated above, you may submit (and make updates as long as our office has not already processed your application) a Summer Aid Application. Please be prepared to supply your UW NetID and password. The Summer Aid Application is available through your MyUW.

More information on Summer Aid: http://www.washington.edu/students/osfa/aidforsum.html

2006-2007 Revision Forms:

Seed IP Law Group Founders Scholarship

Applications are now being accepted for the 2006-2007 Seed IP Law Group Founders Scholarship. The Seed IP Law Group Founders Scholarship commemorates the contribution of the firm’s founders, Richard Seed and Ben Berry, to excellence in Intellectual Property legal work. Ben and Dick were both recognized as leaders in the I.P. field and together they founded and built one of the top I.P. firms in the country. In honor of their contribution, this scholarship recognizes excellence in an I.P. student at the University of Washington School of Law. To receive the scholarship, the student must be enrolled in the I.P. concentration program, either for the JD or LLM programs. Applications should include (1) a cover letter explaining the applicant's qualifications, (2) a resume, and (3) two letters of recommendation (preferably faculty members). A Seed IP Scholarship Committee composed of local practitioners and law faculty reviews applications. The deadline for submission is May 19th, 2006.

WSBA Labor and Employment Law Internship Program

The Labor and Employment Law section of the WSBA and the University of Washington School of Law will provide a total of $5,000 in funding for a qualified student for the summer of 2006. Applications available in room 362. Deadline for materials is May 1st.

WSBA Tax Scholarship

The WSBA Tax Section is pleased to announce its fifth annual tax scholarship of $5,000. Eligible individuals are any students currently attending a Washington law school with plans to attend an LL.M. tax program in 2006-2007. Please visit room 362 for more information.

Association of Trial Lawyers of America Scholarship

The 2006 Alia Herrera Memorial Scholarship, in the amount of $3,000 is open this year only to all students attending law schools in Seattle. Please visit my office for full application materials. Applications must include a 500 word essay on the following: “Do you believe victims of defective products that meet federal standards should be limited from recovering damages from the manufacturers of the defective products?” Deadline: May 1, 2006

Takuji Yamashita Endowed Memorial Scholarship

The Takuji Yamashita Memorial Scholarship was established in 2001 by his descendants and friends to provide assistance to students of Asian decent enrolled in the School of Law who have demonstrated a particular interest in human and civil rights. Takuji Yamashita, a native of Japan was among the first students enrolled at the University Of Washington School Of Law in 1900. Distinguishing himself for his skills in moot court, he graduated in 1902. He later passed the bar examination. However the laws at the time did not allow non-citizens to be admitted to the bar and people of Japanese decent were not allowed to become American citizens. On March 1, 2001, the Washington State Supreme Court posthumously admitted Takuji Yamashita to the Washington State Bar. In recognition of Takuji Yamashita’s place in the history of American civil rights, the history of the legal profession in the State of Washington and the history of the University Of Washington School Of Law, we will award this scholarship in his honor each year.

Scholarship: Approximately $2,000 for the 2006-2007 academic year.

Application: Applicants will submit a one-page description of their demonstrated interest in international human and civil rights. Although not required, you may also submit a letter of recommendation and a resume as part of your application. Application materials should be turned in to the Financial Aid Office in room 362.
Deadline: May 26, 2005

John H. and George V. Powell Endowed Award for Human Rights

I am very pleased to announce the forth annual John H. and George V. Powell Award for Human Rights. This award provides assistance to J.D. students doing summer internships or externships in the area of Human Rights and Justice. The scholarship fund will award $1,000 in financial assistance. Applicants will submit a one-page paper describing their Human Rights summer opportunity. Recipients will be selected by the Dean upon the recommendation of faculty members in accordance with the donor’s terms. The deadline is May 5, 2006. Papers should be submitted to Arlo Hammontree in room 362.

Schiavo Attorney to Speak at UW Law School

Jon B. Eisenberg, one of the lead attorneys on Michael Schiavo's side of the Terri Schiavo case, will speak at the University of Washington School of Law April 25, 2006 at 12:30 p.m. in William H. Gates Hall Room 138. Eisenberg's talk is sponsored by UW Law Students for Choice.

The author of Using Terri, Eisenberg represented Terri's guardian and husband, Michael. Five years after Terri was diagnosed as being in a "persistent vegetative state" following a cardiac arrest in 1990, Michael petitioned the courts to remove her feeding tube. Terri's parents, Robert and Mary Schindler, however, opposed the removal of Terri's life support and fought a series of legal battles opposing Michael. By March 2005, however, the courts found in favor of her husband. Terri died in a Florida hospice on March 31, 2005. The Terri Schiavo case has been described as a "key battle" in a larger political struggle of abortion, physician-assisted suicide, the right-to-die, and the appointment of federal judges.

Eisenberg's talk is part of the 2nd Annual Law Students for Choice Film Festival. The festival schedule follows:

Monday, April 24, 6:30 p.m., Gates Hall 138
Roots of Roe
Speak Out: I Had an Abortion
The Abortion Diaries

Tuesday, April 25, 12:30 p.m., Gates Hall 138

South Asian Bar Association to Hold Banquet

The South Asian Bar Association will hold its first annual banquet, April 27, 2006, from 6:30 - 9 p.m., in the Hilton Pacific Ballroom, Seattle. The keynote address, "Should South Asians Care About Civil Liberties," will be presented by UW School of Law Professor Anita Ramasastry.

"The South Asian Bar Association of Washington is honored to have Professor Anita Ramasastry inaugurate our first annual banquet with her keynote address on civil liberties," said Sandip Soli (’99), Secretary, Immediate Past President & Co-Founder, South Asian Bar Association of Washington. "As descendents of immigrants, all Americans should take pause and reflect upon the ways in which our constitutional principles have been interpreted since September 11, and the treatment accorded to citizens and non-citizens in the name of national security. Not only is Professor Ramasastry attune to speak on these issues, but she encouraged my law school classmates and I to start this organization several years ago at the UW Law School so that we now have a legal forum that focuses on our community."

As space is limited, RSVP to Kaustuv M. Das, Davis Wright Tremaine LLP, 2600 Century Square, 1501 4th Ave, Seattle, WA 98101.

IFAP Celebrates 10th Anniversary

The Hon. Margaret McKeown, Judge for the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, will be speaking at the Immigrant Families Advocacy Project (IFAP) 10th Anniversary event, May 2, 2006 at Perkins Coie, Seattle. The reception begins at 5:30 p.m., followed by the keynote address at 6:15 p.m.

Judge McKeown was appointed to her current seat by President Bill Clinton in 1998 and was the first female partner with Perkins Coie in Seattle and Washington, DC.

IFAP is a student organization that assists immigrant victims of family violence as they petition for permanent residency in the U.S. The organization works closely with the Northwest Immigrant Rights Project and pro bono attorneys from the community.

The UW School of Law community is invited to attend. RSVP to uwifap@yahoo.com, as space is limited.

Citing Unpublished Opinions
--Mary Whisner

On April 12, 2006, the U.S. Supreme Court voted to adopt a rule that would allow citations to unpublished opinions in federal courts starting next year. Congress has until December 1 to block the rule change.

Many unpublished opinions are available on legal databases and currently, Second, Seventh, Ninth, and Federal Circuits ban citations to unpublished opinions while the remaining circuits discourage it. Under the new rule, circuits will not be able to prevent lawyers from citing unpublished opinions issued on or after January 1, 2007, but can still give varying precedential weight to them.

According to the April 13 article at http://www.law.com/jsp/scm/news.jsp, “unpublished opinions first came into vogue in the 1960s as a time-saving device for appellate judges.” The article further notes that the change was proposed by the Advisory Committee on the Federal Rules of Appellate Procedure, then chaired by Third Circuit Judge Samuel Alito and with D.C. Circuit Judge John Roberts on the Committee…and so the “vote may have been unsurprising.”

Other rules changed are: Appellate Rule 25; Bankruptcy Rules 1009, 5005, 7004; Civil Rules 5, 9, 14, 16, 24, 26, 33, 34, 37, 45, 50, and 65.1; new Civil Rule 5.1; Civil Form 35; and Supplemental Rules A, C, and E, and new Supplemental Rule G; Criminal Rules 5, 6, 32.1, 40, 41, and 58; and Evidence Rules 404, 408, 606, and 609. See http://www.uscourts.gov/rules/#supreme0406.

Try Casemaker & Loislaw

Will your employer provide you with Lexis or Westlaw this summer or after graduation? Do you want to know what other online legal research systems are out there? Bring your lunch and come to a workshop on Tuesday, May 2, 12:30-1:20 in Room 119. A reference librarian will demonstrate Casemaker and Loislaw and talk about low-cost alternatives to Lexis and Westlaw. See you there!

AccessLaw Improvement Coming Soon!
--Judy Davis

Do you know that AccessLaw allows you to simultaneously search the law library catalogs of Yale, U. Penn, U. of Texas at Austin, U.C. Berkeley, and UW? But that’s not all. Soon, you’ll be able to request materials directly from these libraries with just your name and Husky card barcode. If you've used SUMMIT (SUMMIT allows you to simultaneously search and request materials from 30+ academic libraries in the Pacific Northwest), you've experienced the convenience and timely delivery of this service. AccessLaw promises to provide similar benefits even though your research materials may come from afar. To search AccessLaw or SUMMIT, go to http://marian.law.washington.edu/ and look under “Other Library Catalogs.” And be on the lookout for the new resource sharing capability coming soon to AccessLaw.

Book of the Week: Cohen’s Handbook of Federal Indian Law
--Ann Hemmens

As you know, Professor Robert Anderson teaches property and Indian law courses at the UW School of Law. He also serves as the Director of the Native American Law Center at the Law School. He recently contributed to the scholarship of Indian law by serving as one of the executive editors for the 2005 edition of Cohen’s Handbook of Federal Indian Law, the preeminent treatise on the topic.

This treatise was originally published in 1941 by Felix Cohen who served in various capacities in the federal government for fourteen years before returning to private law practice. According to the editors of the 2005 edition, the first edition was an:

American legal realist classic and played an important role in both the history of federal Indian law and the evolution of American jurisprudence. Before its publication, lawyers and courts regarded federal Indian law as a collection of loosely connected, tribally specific treaties, statutes, case decisions, and other sources. Felix Cohen’s Handbook brought focus and coherence to this confusing welter of sources and, in effect, created the field of federal Indian law. (ix)

The work has had an interesting history. The first edition reflected Felix Cohen’s belief in tribal sovereignty and the importance of preserving tribal cultures, resources, and land. However, by the 1950s, federal government’s policy towards Indians changed and the Department of the Interior published a revised edition of the Handbook in 1958 with a focus on the federal government’s power over tribes. Then Congress got involved in the fray when it mandated, via a provision in the Civil Rights Act of 1968, an update of the Handbook. This resulted in the 1982 edition with a returned focus on tribal sovereignty.

Another UW Law professor, in addition to Professor Anderson, contributed to this important treatise.
Professor Ralph Johnson (1923-1999) provided assistance to the editors who drafted the 2005 edition. He was well known to Indian law scholars. A listing of his publications is available online, http://lib.law.washington.edu/ref/raljohnson.html.

The field of Indian law has changed a great deal since the 1982 publication. Consequently you will find coverage of these new topics in the 2005 edition: cultural property; comparative and international law; Indian gaming; Indian child welfare; environmental regulation; tribal recognition; tribal-state cooperative agreements; and the legal regimes dealing with specific native groups such as Native Hawaiians, Alaska Natives, the Pueblos, Oklahoma tribes, and unrecognized or state-recognized tribes. This compact one-volume treatise will be updated on a biannual basis in the future.

Chapters of Cohen's Handbook of Federal Indian Law:

1. History & background of federal Indian policy
2. Principles of interpretation
3. Indian tribes, Indians, and Indian country
4. Indian tribal governments
5. Tribal/federal relationship
6. Tribal/state relationship
7. Civil jurisdiction
8. Taxation
9. Criminal jurisdiction
10. Environmental regulation in Indian country
11. Indian Child Welfare Act
12. Indian gaming
13. Federal Indian liquor laws
14. Civil rights
15. Tribal property
16. Individual Indian property
17. Natural resources
18. Hunting, fishing, and gathering rights
19. Water rights
20. Tribal cultural resources
21. Economic development
22. Government services for Indians

Helpful finding aids include a Table of Cases, Table of Statutes (including USC, CFR and state statutes), and an Index.

Whether you are studying Indian law because you plan to practice in the area or you are writing a seminar paper, remember to consult Cohen's Handbook of Federal Indian Law (2005) (KF8205 .C6 2005 at Reference Area). For additional resources, see the Indian Law Research guide, http://lib.law.washington.edu/ref/indian.html.

The Innocence Project Northwest presents a screening of DEADLINE, THE MOVIE
Tuesday, May 4 in Room 119. Refreshments will be served.

In this stirring documentary, Governor George Ryan faces shocking findings about flaws in his state's capital punishment system that call his long-held beliefs into question. Suddenly, he must make one of the most difficult decisions of his life-to ignore this disturbing evidence, or to transform the entire Illinois capital punishment system. The stakes of this decision are the lives of over 170 people, and Ryan's own political career. And he has only a few months to issue his final decision. Deadline, captures the ensuing dramatic series of events as they unfold.

With astounding access to these hearings, Death Row prisoners, exonerated men and Governor Ryan himself, Deadline, brings us directly into the emotional and legal storm surrounding Ryan's impending decision. Viewers are pulled into the story as families exchange pleas for forgiveness or revenge; as an exonerated man in Florida tries to pull the pieces of his shattered life back together; and as a man reflects on his crime and the consequences. The filmmakers also shed light on the United States' complicated relationship with the death penalty, using archival flashbacks to the landmark decisions and capital punishment policies implemented in the 1970's that brought the U.S.-and Governor Ryan-to where they are today.

Please join the Innocence Project Northwest for an exciting screening of this film.
